Biography

Quinton is an attorney based in the Indianapolis office. He earned his Bachelor's Degree in History with a minor in Political Science from Valparaiso University in 2007, followed by a Master's Degree in Sports Administration in 2008. He later returned to Valparaiso University, graduating from its law school in 2013.

During law school, Quinton spent the summer of his second year working as a law clerk in the City of Gary's Law Department. In his third year, he participated in the Mediation Clinic, where he assisted parties in resolving disputes.

After passing the bar, Quinton began his legal career at the Lake County Prosecutor's Office. Over five years, he litigated a wide range of cases, from low-level misdemeanors to serious felony matters, including violent offenses, drug-related crimes, sex crimes, and homicides. He then transitioned to the Monroe County Public Defender's Office, where he served for six years as a Senior Trial Attorney. In this role, he handled criminal cases, matters involving the Department of Child Services, Termination of Parental Rights, and Child Support issues.

In addition to his courtroom experience, Quinton has taught as an Adjunct Professor at Indiana University Maurer School of Law for the past two years. Outside of his professional commitments,
